

ABSTRACT

A developer supply container detachably mountable to an image forming apparatus, the developer
5 supply container includes a container body for accommodating a developer, the container body being provided with a discharge opening for permitting discharging of the developer; feeding means for feeding the developer in the container body toward the 10 discharge opening; and a driving source for driving the feeding means.